by Julian Martinez (brobotc)

High school, Sociopath, lover boy Murray light burn would do anything for the girl of his dreams, marry brown, even if it means murder. He would observe her for week's even months at a time, to see what she liked, and what she hated. Murray was a short bald seventeen year old who escaped from a mental institution at the age of thirteen after his parents were murdered. Murray and Marries lockers were right next to each other, so he would always get to see her at every break, every day. But marry had a boyfriend, Mike. In reality, marry never really noticed who the hell Murray was, but in Murrays mind, everything was how he wanted it to be, he would always be talking to marry and laughing and making jokes with her, when in reality he would laugh at his own jokes and talk to himself. Everyone avoided him in. But the day of his birthday, October 19, 1992, he snapped. Why you ask? It was the days that marry and mike shared their first kiss, and Murray was there to watch. Mike was the first to go. After following mike to his house on Palm Street, Murray walked up to mike and had a "friendly conversation" about that kiss with marry. In his mind. In reality, Murray brutally murdered mike in cold blood by cutting out his heart and throwing it away. The next day at high school, everyone knew what happened, but no one knew who it was. marries friend Julie was there to comfort her, but Murray saw through her lies. Murray knew that mike and Julie were going out together behind Marries back and by being loyal to Marry, Murray knew what he had to do .that night Murray followed Julie home, confronted her and asked her why she would hurt her best friend like that. She ignored him like the freak he was .Murray didn't like that. He strangled her to death and hid her body behind her house. But when Murray went home, reality started to kick in for Murray, he knew what he did wrong and started to get paranoid if anyone would start to figure out who was committing all these murders .The next day at school, Murray realized that no one talked to him, and that no one has ever talked to him. He also noticed that marry never payed attention to him or even talked to him. So he knew what he had to do. That day Murray left school early and went to marries house, where he brutally murdered marries parents. The next day of school, marry was so distraught that her boyfriend ,parents and best friend had died all in a period of 3 days. So Murray tried to comfort marry and show her attention. She started to fall for him and Murray had never felt so happy in his life. But when police came to marry stating that the murderer might possibly be Murray, she became so insecure at school the next day. Murray knew that Marry knew, and he had never felt so scared in his life. That night he knew what he had to do, he broke into the school. The next day Murray was found dead in front of his locker with his heart cut out, and in marries locker was his heart along with a note "I loved you, I've always loved you, ever since I saw you, but you had no right to do what you did to my parents' love you, but I was just returning the favor". Marry was so scared she fainted, instantly hitting the locker and dying. And now, every day at school Murray and marry walk the school, two spirits that resent each other, each of them, a Heartless Romantic, looking for there one true love.
